Subject: Public Comment to GLWA Board Meeting on July 25, 2018

GLWA unlike USEPA does not take public comments seriously by not answering them. Citizen science and citizen scientists contribute very much to the well being of the nation. Scientific societies encourage the submission of presentations by citizen scientists. The same comments in an extended form given to GLWA later find their way as citizen science presentations. GLWA board members and executive staff are unavailable for meetings with citizen scientists, although requests have been made. GLWA attitude to citizen science must change from PR and stonewalling to fruitful discussion with citizen scientists.
