Subject: Public Comment to GLWA Board on May 23, 2018

GLWA is spreading propaganda about its progress. Next month at Michigan Water Environment Association's annual conference Wendy Barrott from GLWA and associates from University of Michigan will talk about phosphorus removal through secondary treatment, while phosphorus rises 10 times in Detroit River. Ed Hogan from Wade Trim, who designed the totally flawed sewage sludge drying facility, and 3 GLWA employees will talk about biosolids management as overcoming a perfect storm. These are failures, not successes. GLWA propaganda has no legs. Saulius Simoliunas, 665 W. Warren Avenue, Detroit, MI 48201, 3134655786
